To Europe.

The next number of The Tribune for Europe will be issued. To-morrow morning at 7 o'clock. It will contain all the latest news received up to the time of going to press. The America will be suspended until Wednesday.

WE TRUST that no thinking citizen of New York will fail to read the clear and able exposé of the finances of the State from the pen of WASHINGTON HUNT, the Controller, the essential part of which fills our columns this morning. His statement with regard to the policy pursued by the Whigs Administration under the financial article of the new Constitution is a conclusive demolition of the loud attacks which have been made upon it; the system of internal improvements which the Whigs have steadily defended and their opponents decried, is also justified by facts which are the most triumphant arguments. Figures and statistics may generally wear a dull aspect to the ordinary reader, but when they are used in such a record as that of the prosperity of this great State they glow with a warmth and significance which no man can equal.

MIST IN NEW-YORK.—While Senator Dixons has introduced a Bill in the Senate at Washington to establish a Branch Mint at New York the delegation from the city in the other House have not been asleep on the subject. Hon. GEORGE BRONSON, on the 27th ult. gave notice of his intention to bring in a bill to the same purport, but since that day no occasion has offered to execute his design, the House having been occupied with the election of Clerk. Our citizens may, we think, rest assured that the public interest will not be neglected in this particular.

Dr. SAMUEL B. WOODWARD, whose death took place on the evening of the 3d inst. at his residence in Northampton, Mass., was one of the most eminent men in New-England, and greatly endeared to a numerous circle of friends in every walk of life, and in almost every region of the country, by the rare virtues of his private character. For many years he was the Superintendent of the State Lunatic Asylum in Worcester, Mass., in which office he established a high reputation for his professional skill, his admirable tact and judgment in his intercourse with the afflicted, and winning courtesy of manners, his devoted faithfulness to the subjects of his care, and his uncommon probity and exactness in the transaction of business. He was one of the first in this country to introduce the mild and humane treatment of the insane which is now adopted in all our public institutions for their relief. His example and influence had great weight. The correctness of his theories was proved by the success of his practice. The Reports of the Asylum at Worcester show a proportion of recovery which were formerly unprecedented in the records of medical science. Dr. Woodward treated his patients as rational beings; he appealed to every ray of intellect that had survived; and he always made them his friends. The establishment over which he presided had the appearance of a large family under orderly, but not severe, regulations. It was pervaded by an air of comfort, of domesticity, of cheerfulness, from its rich and blooming gardens to the neat and spacious chambers devoted to the more aggravated forms of mental disease. His personal character, kind, considerate, urban, vigorous, with a rare union of gentleness and decision, contributed, in no small degree, to the distinguished success of the institution. Few men enjoyed so large a share of public confidence and private esteem.

His retirement from the Asylum, to which he had devoted the best years of his life, was made necessary by his declining health. It occasioned a universal sentiment of regret. Since that time, he has been a resident of Northampton, where in the more private walks of life he won the same affectionate admiration which followed him throughout his official career. He was in the 65th year of his age at the time of his death.

Things at Washington.

Correspondence of the Tribune.—Washington, Friday, Jan. 6.—The postponement of the proceedings on the election of Clerk is believed by many to be due to the chance of Mr. FORNEY. The Loco members are annoyed at the movement, which gives time for the abolitionists to be in their seats, and should there be a concentration of the strength of the Whigs on CAMFIELD, his chance for election will be greatly improved. There are ten or eleven Whigs now absent. MOSES, BOKER, GOULD, MATTHEWS, PHENIX AND ANDREWS of New-York, Mr. CARRILL of Fla., MILES, BOWIE and KEEF of Md., Mr. VAN DYKE of N. J., Mr. NEFF of Penn., Mr. MORTON of Va., MOSES, DANIEL of N. C., GENTRY of Tenn., POTTER of Ohio, WENTWORTH of Ill., Mr. LANAHAN of Penn., HOLLIDAY of Va., GREEN of Mo., TH. HARRIS of Pa. and WILDRICK of N. J. were also out of their seats today. Had they been there, an election would probably have been effected on the second trial for a Clerk.

It is said the House will be full on Monday, and that FORNEY cannot obtain a majority of 100 votes. I hope to see him a member and a support of FORNEY. If the Whigs can by any probability be made to vote in a body for the re-election of CAMFIELD, I believe there will fall in some of the Free Soilers, all of whom voted for the postponement of the election.

A resolution was then read, and it was then shown that Mr. W. W. RAFFERTY could be induced to move a reconsideration of this vote. This, however, proved an abortive scheme. A resolution was then made among the States, and Mr. IRVING of Ala. found out in the act of 1782, that there was something which authorized an inference that no business could be done until a Clerk had been elected, in that act. Up he started, therefore, and with consummate dignity made a motion, after having recited the fact, that he was backed by the law, that the House passed the election of a Clerk. The Speaker and the House being fixed upon Monday for that business this motion was not in order. Mr. IRVING then changed the place of his objection and moved that no other business should be entered on until a Clerk should be elected, as he considered it a violation of the act of 1782 to do so. This motion also the Chair declared as out of order. An appeal was made against the decision; but before any question was taken, Mr. ASHKURST moved that when the House adjourned, it shall be on Monday, Year and Day, unless otherwise ordered; and when another motion was made that the House now adjourn, Yeas and Nays again demanded, but refused. Tellers demanded and agreed to. The Tellers announced 114 in the affirmative. "Give it up." "Give it up, from the Loco side." The House adjourned, and so stand all the questions of order until another UPLIFT.

MILITARY COURT MARTIAL.—A general Court Martial was to convene at the United States Arsenal, at Rock, Ark., on the 20th ult., to investigate charges against Brigadier-General, now Major-General, and six others to compose the Court. Col. BREWER was appointed Judge Advocate.

Things in Philadelphia.

Correspondence of the Tribune.—Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—The House was yesterday examined and committed to prison to answer the charge of murdering his brother in law, William McGrath.

The Friendship Five Company of Baltimore, after being handsomely entertained by our Firemen, returned to that city last evening.

THE NEW COUNCIL.—To-day the new Common Council will be inducted into office. The Mayor will swear the Speaker to record his vote, which, by making a tie, would have left the decision in the hands of the Speaker. The Speaker, however, very promptly decided that as he had announced his vote, it was too late to take any exception to it. A resolution was then read, and it was then shown that Mr. W. W. RAFFERTY could be induced to move a reconsideration of this vote. This, however, proved an abortive scheme. A resolution was then made among the States, and Mr. IRVING of Ala. found out in the act of 1782, that there was something which authorized an inference that no business could be done until a Clerk had been elected, in that act.
